

Forcing Backdoors into networks will only create a large security hole that hackers will exploit, compromising personal privacy and costing programmers such as myself possible job loss